Big budget moves in store

Mayor Cruse offers solutions to Granite deficit

With a $1.6 million deficit in the coming fiscal year. Mayor Yon Dee Cruse has been pondering ways to come up with new revenue and at the same time cut expenses. He and others in the city have come up with several proposals that they say will do just that. At the invitation of the newspaper. Cruse has drafted the following "State of the City," in which he outlines how thancing sold into its current thancing shape and how it can get out.

To the taxpayers of Granie.

To the taxpayers of Granite City:
Many of you have heard or read about our city's financial difficulties and upcoming budget deficit. With the elections over, it is a subject that the City Council will tackle in earnest as soon as the new members are seated. But before that whole process gets started. I wanted to explain to you, the taxpayer, our problems and what I see as our solutions.

In March, newly elected Governor Jim Edgar proposed a budget that, if approved, will budget that, if approved, will be approved to the state income tax by more than $250,000.

And, if this wasn't bad enough, you have probably read about our problems and battles with Bureau. If their count sticks, and it looks like it will, it will cost us an additional $300,000 in various types of revenues.

Couple these cuts with insurance, trash hauling and everything from the price of gasoline to police cars and I think you will begin to see our problems through massive layoffs and there are others who say we should simply raise your property taxes to make up for those to these socialed energies.

Trash-hauling fee, cut in street lights among plans

Following are proposed changes that Mayor Von Dec Cruse says are needed for Grunte City to meet a balanced budget in the coming fiscal year:

1. Eliminate one third of the city's street lights. Each light costs about 800 per year. Total savings would be $140,000.

2. Shift, paying school crossing guards to the School District. A savings of $44,734 a year.

3. Continue the hirring freeze. It is expected that the city will lose two people to retirement during Fiscal Year 1922 resulting in a savings of approximately $70,000.

4. Cut administrative costs (travel, books, office equipment, etc.) by $50,000 out of a budget of $125,000.

Because those cuts will still leave the city $1,012,000 short of

It is not unheard of for young girls attending school in the shadow of a Midwestern steel mill to dream of being an opera prima donna on the New York stage.

For them, Granite City native Erie Mills gives hope that dreams can't come true.

Grammy-winner Mills considers herself among the very fortunate ones: "we love to do."

Newsweek magazine recently selected her as one of the New York Metropolitan Opera's outstanding lytic sopranos. From her New York debut in 1082, with the City Opera in Leonard Bernstein's "Candide," to last season's role of Zerlinda in the City Opera production of "Don Glovanni," she has been hailed for her ability to combine continuous control of the combine combin

Editorials Bailing out Granite City

Balling out Granite City

On today's Page 1A is an outline of Mayor Von Dee Cruse's plan for relieving the city of an anticipated $1.6 million deficit in the coming fiscal year starting May 1.

Read it carefully. You may not like what you see, Despite your feelings, however, we hope you keep an open mind on some of the mayor's proposals. They are being presented candidly and in just about as direct a fashion as a public official can get with his constituency. The mayor drafted his "State of the City" at the request of the Press-Record/Journal, so people could begin pondering the choices facing our 14-man city council. We chose to run the message on the front page, granting it the kind of exposure that we feel it deserves.

The proposals are the result of continuing discussions between alderman, department heads and an ad hoc committee that has been analyzing the city's operation. They will be the launching pad from, which serious debate will start.

While no increased property taxes are called for, there are calls for a boost in the city sales tax, a new per-household trash-hauling fee, new fee structures for business licenses and building permits; and a continuation of the city's hiring freeze, among other things.

In addition, cuts are being proposed in street lighting, school crossing guard costs and travel expenses.

Mayor Cruse wisely tells us that anyone else with ideas is welcomed to suggest them. This suggests to us that he is welcomed to suggest them. This suggests to us that he is welcomed to suggest them. Grante City is facing a challenge unlike any it's ever faced. And we agree with the mayor that the total deficit cannot be made up by cuts in manpower or increases to property tax.

Perhaps none of these proposals is the best one, but before rendering an opinion, we would like to see what some of the first debate brings.

An informed opinion is the only one we care to make. We hope all of Grante City looks upon the budget the same way.

Pontoon needs advice

Pontoon 'needs advice

Pontoon Beach's Tax Increment Financing District may eventually pay big dividends. But if it does it won't be because village leaders showed any foreight in how to administer the district.

As we have shown with articles in recent days, Pontoon Beach officials listened with their hearts and not their heads when they agreed to let developer Stan Lucas have total say in how the TIF District was going to proceed. In approving his plan for development of Chouteau Trace, an area along Route 111, the village, instead of considering various alternatives, placed all of its trust in Lucas' company.

The village paid an exorbitant amount to purchase the property from Lucas and then turned around and granted him all the rights to develop the site. No thought was given to letting the area develop as it likely would have in coming years. No thought was given to getting an independent appraisal of the area before buying it from and for Lucas.

It appears that so little thought was given to the whole process that one wonders what is still to come.

If the bind that Pontoon Beach got itself into with its TIF district doesn't qualify for some outside assistance, we don't know what does.

Pontoon now faces a first payment on bonds issued to pay for the development of Chouteau Trace, and at this writing, no one knows how the payment will be met. You can bet axpayers won't want to have to be asked.

We suggest Pontoon officials begin asking themselves about the TIF district's administration. And if they can't get the answers, they should seek out some expertise.

Veteran thinks celebration for troops a bit overdone

How many veterans out there think America's praise of its Persian Gulf troops is a bit overdone? I know of at least one. He called me a few days ago, a green's like was a construction of the sum of the was a battler-from World War II, having served in what was known as a "bastard outfit," a group constantly detached from one division of troops and attached to another. Charlotte Fowler alnyway on a temporary basis and have Ray Gaudette turn over the books as soon as possible. Wilson said.

"I want the attorney to give an opinion on temporary appointments," Douglas said.

"It is an accepted practice in the area but I imagine you want the attorney Keith Jensen said.

"Yes. I want it in writing."
Douglas responded.
"I knew I was going to get an argument. Would either of you appoint Ray Gaudette as treasurer if you were my place"
Wilson asked, referring to Gaudenton opposing him in the election.

Ribbing said Gaudette should.

Veronica Kelley was returned to the Pontoon Beach Zoning Board of Appeals for a five-year term without dissent:

- The four-man bloc also voted to override Witness case of the Appeals for a five-year to override witness creating of a Tax Increment Financing District for Chouteau Trace II and creating an accompanying Special Service Area for the same property. Both ordinances had been at the board's appeal of the pretting witness of the proteing.

Wilson said be was going to veto Ordinance 537 rescinding the TIF. The cost of re-establing a district, should it be need, was too much, he said.

Douglas made a motion to override the mayor's veto, saying "The development is the same as the one we have (Chouteau Trace I) and we are being sued about it.

"If it wasn't for certain people here, we wouldn't be sued," Wil-son responded, followed by applause from sections of the room.

require the payment immediately, and that the interest due will become part of the principal. He become part of the principal is become part of the principal of the payments eventually. Property is not assessed fully for three years. Whitself explained. If you build a house out there now, you won't receive the full tax until the third year. The bank, Magna Bank, if they didn't expect that, they never would have loaned this much. "So what happens is the interest is accrued. According to think it is about the fifth year after construction — which I think it is about the fifth year after construction — which I think is about 1995 — the area will be more than paying for itself, We had the supervisor of what we have right now in construction, and it will cover the payment on the bonds. "Of course, every day other thuildings) are going up, and the full assessment won't be in-for individual to the payment of the bonds."

The bond ordinance addresses that ... The bank willnot demand payment of the payment of those bonds, "Whitself emphasized."

What if you had a billing question long after normal business hours? Or a safety question late in the evening? Or maybe even an emergency at 3 a.m.

Well, thanks to our new 24-hour, seven-day-aweek Customer Center, you'll always have someone to talk to. Just call 1-800-755-5000 and one of our trained operators will go out of their way to get you an answer.

Of course, we could have designed a less elaborate center. But at 3 a.m., you'll be glad we didn't.
